Our Lady of Sorrows

September

25th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

"Anyone who welcomes one of these children, welcomes me"

Jesus, the Son of Man, on the way that leads to his passion. Misunderstood, and so a cause for embarrassment and confusion to his disciples, he strives nonetheless to bring them along with him, initiating them little by little into their role of messengers of a suffering Messiah. But how difficult it is for them to accept such a teaching! As they journey towards Jerusalem they certainly have need to be rid of their blindness. 'What were you arguing about on the road?' Jesus must surely be aware of their lack of understanding. They are arguing about which of them would be greatest in this temporal kingdom which they hoped for. Men of lowly condition, they dream of such advancement as will procure them prestige and power, and promote them to positions of command. 'You wish to be first?' says Jesus. 'well then, make yourselves the last! You wish to be great, then make yourselves little! You wish to be masters? Then make yourselves servants.' A paradox founded, not on theoretical considerations, but on the concrete example which the Suffering Servant never ceases to give. As for us, what do we discuss on the road of our lives? We too might be rather embarrassed is Jesus asked us this question. When we speak of what is closest to our hearts, each of us reveals the depths of our being. We must mould ourselves into the ways of Jesus.

The power of service

Love serves

By Sr Janet Fearn FMDM

A young man and his toddler son were in the local supermarket when the little one lost his shoe. He looked at it on the floor, pointed downwards and simply declared "Shoe!" in a loud, commanding, voice. Without a second thought, his father went down on his knees before the child and reinstated the shoe. They then continued shopping – but how many others would have brought the man to his knees by a one-word order? Possibly nobody and he would have rightly objected to such a show of power.

The toddler showed the force of love which generates unselfish service. His father wasn't demeaning himself in publicly kneeling before his son and other customers didn't see him as humiliated: they laughingly saw and understood the effect of a small child's single word and accompanying gesture. They also witnessed the toddler's absolute trust that his father would understand and respond to his need, despite his limited vocabulary and inability to explain his difficulties in any other way. He was extraordinarily effective – but that was because of the love of the one and the vulnerability of the other.

In today's Gospel, when Jesus describes leadership and service, he draws a child to himself and presents the child as an example for us to follow. The toddler in the supermarket will, hopefully, one day be an adult and will not consciously remember his father's example and their shared, beautiful, lesson that morning: love serves. Love trusts. Love grows. Love is not demeaning. Love is unselfish. Love brings us closer to God who is love.

Sr Janet Fearn is a Franciscan Missionary of the Divine Motherhood.

As we look at [Mary], in glory, we understand that the true power is service – let us not forget this: the true power is service – and to reign means to love. And that this is the road to Heaven.

Pope Francis

To serve and not to be served

By Camilla Harrison

Mother Teresa was asked, "How do we bring about world peace?" She replied, "Go home and love your family". She also taught that love cannot remain by itself. It must be put into the action of service.

She served "the poorest of the poor", those who had been abandoned by family and society. On being awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979, she refused to take part in the banquet, uncomfortable to feast while others starved. She donated her prize money to India's poor people.

Mother Teresa followed closely the teachings of Jesus who came to serve and not to be served, washing his disciples' feet to show this love. She understood that a lack of family love, and the missing service of parents, can cause chasms of need in society. She said that the worst human disease is to be unloved. If love and service begin in the family, they can ripple outwards into the wider world.

Camilla Harrison was the head of an RE department at a comprehensive school for twenty years and the writer of two of the Family Walks series of books.

Lord God, it's not easy to be in a position of service and yet that is the sort of leadership that you taught us. Help me to strike the balance.  Amen.

Feast of the week Thursday 26 September Pope St Paul VI (1897-1978)

One morning in 2006, as I travelled to work at Vatican Radio, a lady sat beside me and seeing that I am a Sister, proceeded to give me – in Italian – her entire medical history. Unexpectedly, I realised that she had begun a unique and unforgettable testimony.

One day, as she walked through the famous Piazza Venezia, she unexpectedly started to haemorrhage. A priest saw her and stayed with her until the ambulance arrived. Later, he rang the hospital ward to ask after her wellbeing and to enquire whether she needed anything that he could get or do for her. They managed to hold a brief conversation.

To the lady's amazement, a few days later, that priest was declared Pope Paul VI! He had been on his way to the Conclave when he stopped to help her.

THE Wednesday WORD

Encountering Christ The Wednesday Prayer Custom for Homes, Schools & Parishes

Prayerfully preparing for Sunday Mass with special prayers for our school families

Set aside 10-15 minutes and create a suitable environment by removing any distractions. Make sure that you are comfortable. Perhaps light a candle. Make the sign of the cross and remain still for a minute of settling silence.

Remember that through this scripture our Lord is truly present. Read the Gospel, aloud and slowly, and pay attention to any words that stand out. If any do, meditate on them for a few minutes and be invited into a dialogue with God.

Read

The Gospel for Sunday 22nd September 2024

THE SECOND PROPHECY OF THE PASSION

After leaving the mountain Jesus and his disciples made their way through Galilee; and he did not want anyone to know, because he was instructing his disciples; he was telling them, "The Son of Man will be delivered into the hands of men; they will put him to death; and three days after he has been put to death he will rise again." But they did not understand what he said and were afraid to ask him. They came to Capernaum, and when he was in the house he asked them, "What were you arguing about on the road?" They said nothing because they had been arguing which of them was the greatest. So he sat down, called the Twelve to him and said, "If anyone wants to be first, he must make himself last of all and servant of all." He then took a little child, set him in front of them, put his arms round him, and said to them, "Anyone who welcomes one of these little children in my name, welcomes me; and anyone who welcomes me welcomes not me but the one who sent me."

Taken from Mark 9:30-37 The Twenty Fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year B

2

Reflect

After reading the Gospel, did any words stand out? If they did, ponder or discuss them before proceeding with the reflection.

Mark gives us three formal prophecies of the Passion, of which this is the second. He uses the triple number frequently to stress the importance and sureness of an event. So Peter denies Jesus three times, and Pilate three times asserts Jesus' innocence. Jesus is shown to be fully aware of the fate that awaits him: he goes into it with his eyes open, and accepts his Father's will; he is, moreover, aware that his Father will not desert him, but will vindicate him by the Resurrection. Again the disciples fail to understand the message: while Jesus had been giving them the message of triumph only through suffering and humiliation, they had been thinking about who would be the greatest. So Jesus sets before them a child as the model. In what way is a child a model? Like adults, children can be selfish and they can be devious and scheming from an early age. However, children are probably more aware than adults that they cannot totally control a situation and trustingly accept that they are dependent on others. The final words that Jesus speaks in today's Gospel suggests that it is this quality of dependence that Jesus proposes: like little children we should be dependent on the will of the Father.

Why does Jesus put forward a child as a role model for us?

Dom Henry Wansbrough OSB

Respond & Request

Now slowly and prayerfully read the Gospel once again but this time in silence. Consider how this Gospel could apply to your life in general. Thank God for any insight you may have received.

Then ask God to bless you with a spiritual gift to help you act on any resolution you have made. Perhaps: love, hope, understanding, wisdom, faithfulness, peace, patience, humility, joy, forgiveness, self-control, courage, generosity, faith or something else.

Pray for Families

This Wednesday's word for our school families is SERVING !

After praying for your loved ones, please remember to pray for our present and future Church, particularly for the families connected to our schools. You may want to conclude this special weekly time with a simple prayer such as:

St Joseph, Patron Saint of Families and Protector of the Church, pray for us. Mary, Star of Evangelisation, pray for us. Glory be to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Spirit, as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

WEDNESDAY WORD PLUS +

Fr Henry's reflections on the first and second readings of Sunday 22nd September 2024

1st Reading: The Book of Wisdom 2:12. 17-20

The Good Man Taunted

The godless say to themselves, "Let us lie in wait for the virtuous man, since he annoys us and opposes our way of life, reproaches us for our breaches of the law and accuses us of playing false to our upbringing. Let us see if what he says is true; let us observe what kind of end he himself will have. If the virtuous man is God's son, God will take his part and rescue him from the clutches of his enemies. Let us test him with cruelty and with torture, and thus explore this gentleness of his and put his endurance to the proof. Let us condemn him to a shameful death since he will be looked after - we have his word for it."

This is one of the few readings we hear on Sundays taken from the Book of Wisdom. This book was written probably at Alexandria, and was written in Greek, so is not included in the Protestant canon of scripture, which includes only the books written in Hebrew. A major theme of the book is the contrast between divine Wisdom and folly. It also includes a wonderful poem to God's Wisdom, by which he created the world, 'the reflection of the eternal light, and the image of his goodness'. In today's reading we are presented with the taunts which those who refuse divine Wisdom make against those who embrace Wisdom. It is remarkable that in Matthew's gospel the taunts of the chief priests, scribes and elders against Jesus as he hangs on the cross use these very same words. This use of scripture is typical of Matthew's irony, and shows just how wrong those taunting Jesus were. The reading, therefore, both prepares us for the prophecy of the passion in the first part of today's gospel reading, and contrasts the boasts of the godless with the wisdom of simplicity represented by the child in the second part of the gospel. What do we mean when we describe someone as "virtuous"?

True prayer submits in obedience to the Father.

2nd Reading: James 3:16-4:3

Peace and Prayer

Wherever you find jealousy and ambition, you find disharmony, and wicked things of every kind being done; whereas the wisdom that comes down from above is essentially something pure; it also makes for peace, and is kindly and considerate; it is full of compassion and shows itself by doing good; nor is there any trace of partiality or hypocrisy in it. Peacemakers, when they work for peace, sow the seeds which will bear fruit in holiness. Where do these wars and battles between yourselves first start? Isn't it precisely in the desires fighting inside your own selves? You want something and you haven't got it; so you are prepared to kill. You have an ambition that you cannot satisfy; so you fight to get your way by force. Why you don't have what you want is because you don't pray for it; when you do pray and don't get it, it is because you have not prayed properly; you have prayed for something to indulge your own desires.

The reading from the Letter of James begins by contrasting quarrelling and ambition, and their evil effects, with the true wisdom which brings peace. Then it goes on to some stern words about prayer which is not answered, 'because you have prayed for something to indulge your own desires'. Is it wrong, then, to ask God for what we want? What about 'Ask and you shall receive; seek and you shall find'? The problem of unanswered prayers of petition is a difficult one. We do not really believe that we can change God's mind and intentions by praying. Nevertheless, we express to God our needs and desires, although we are well aware that he knows them already. This is what a child does to a loving father, 'Please, please!' We even link arms with our mother, Mary, or even our brother and Saviour, Jesus, to increase the persuasive power. But every prayer of petition, just as a child's prayer to a loving father, contains the hidden text that the Father knows best. The child or the praying Christian can want something desperately, but, for true prayer, the child or Christian submits in obedience to the Father; only in this way is our prayer an expression of trust and affection. What is the point of petitionary prayer (prayers of request)?

Prayer is an incredible adventure. It's also a big challenge. Sometimes it's hard to make the time, or we don't know how to start, or it doesn't seem to be working. This Sycamore film helps you appreciate the wonder of prayer and how it can help you in your daily life. It gives you four basic ways of praying that you can try at home, and suggests some prayers and devotions that Christians throughout the ages have found helpful.
